Roman Britain was a province of the Roman Empire from 43 to 409. Before the invasions the tribes of Britain had already established cultural and economic links with continental Europe, but the Roman invaders introduced new developments in agriculture, urbanisation, industry, and architecture. After the initial rebellions of Caratacus and Boudicca, the Romans controlled the lands south of Hadrian’s wall in relative peace & a distinctively Romano-British culture developed. From 400 Britain suffered repeated attacks from barbarian invasions and in c. 409 Roman officials departed. Over the next 150 years most of the Roman cities fell into ruins, nevertheless, the legacy of Roman rule was felt for many centuries.

“Romanisation” of Britain

Trade: During the Roman period Britain’s continental trade was principally directed across the Southern North Sea and Eastern Channel. Imports included: coin, pottery, olive oil, wine, olives, salt fish, & glass. Exports (more difficult to prove archeologically): metals (silver, gold, lead, iron & copper), salt & agricultural products.

Economy: Mining very important & agriculture. By the 3rd century, Britain's economy was diverse and well established.

Government: Country run by Governor, whose role was primarily military, but also maintaining diplomatic relations with local client kings, building roads, ensuring the public courier system functioned, supervising the civitates & acting as a judge in important cases.

Settlements: Romans established a number of important settlements, many of which still survive. They introduced the idea of a town as a centre of power and administration.

Religion: Druids outlawed by Claudius, however, Britain’s continued to worship Celtic deities. Christianity introduced to Britain in c. 200.
